We are privileged to host this nurse expert and one of the leaders of The Joint Commission, to discuss the challenges of translating research into practice, accelerating the adoption of evidence-based practice, and strategies for leaders to advance the application of research in practice.

Translating Research into Practice

Ann Scott Blouin, PhD, RN
Executive Vice President, Division of Accreditation and Certification Operations, The Joint Commission

Thursday, May 27, 2010
1300-1400 • HSLC 1325

1.0 contact hour will be awarded for this program.

University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics is an approved provider of continuing nursing education by the Wisconsin Nurses Association, an accredited approver by the American Nurses Credentialing Center’s Commission on Accreditation.

Planning Committee: Marilyn Haynes-Brokopp, MS, RN, APHN-BC; Dianne Danis, MS, RN, NEA-BC, FAAN; Niki Bennett, MS, RN, CCRN, CNRN

Ann Scott Blouin is the Executive Vice President in the Division of Accreditation and Certification Operations at The Joint Commission. In this role, Dr. Blouin is responsible for oversight of the accreditation and certification programs for more than 17,000 health care organizations, including all activities related to surveys and the accreditation and certification processes, sentinel events, complaints, and performance measurement requirements. She also oversees the standards interpretation function, surveyor management and development, and the ongoing development and refinement of the priority focus process and the periodic performance review.

With more than 30 years of health care administration, consulting and clinical nursing experience, Dr. Blouin has held positions of program administrator, vice president for nursing, and executive vice president for operations. She has consulted with some of the leading health care organizations in the country through leadership roles at major national consulting firms. Dr. Blouin has published and taught extensively on topics focused on health care and nursing administration. She currently serves on the National Advisory Board for U.S. Preventive Medicine and as an editorial advisor for the Journal of Nursing Administration and Journal of Biotechnology in Healthcare.